Design: 'Scala'

Designer: Pernille Svane Hansen

Pernille Svane Hansen was the first designer from outside the UK that Allermuir worked with. Pernille studied architecture and design for six years in her native Denmark at the Aarhus School of Architecture, followed by work on theatre set design in Denmark and commercial interior design in London.

She has had work exhibited on a number of occasions at the Scandinavian Furniture Fair, Copenhagen and until recently worked for a leading architectural practice.

Features:

Scala is a timeless, classic piece of Scandinavian design. It is elegant, restrained, and finely detailed. The slender tubular frame with gently curving front legs forms a compact footprint, while the curved seat and back provide excellent comfort. The footrest framework of the stool conveys aesthetic characteristics of both the positive and negative shapes within the chair. The design works equally well with veneered seat and back as it does with the upholstered option. A further option, which has proved very popular, is to mix the two with a veneered back and upholstered seat. The curved front leg of the chair and stool is mirrored in the equally elegant matching table design. The 'square' tabletops have arcing edges on all sides and the rectangular ones have arcing ends.

Finishes:

The chair and stool frames and table legs can be Epoxy Polyester Powder Coated (EPPC) from our range of metal finish colours, or chrome plated in either bright polished or satin finishes. Wood seats and backs can be clear lacquered, stained and lacquered or solid coloured from our range of stains and wood colours. Upholstered versions can be made from a wide choice of contract quality fabrics including customer's own materials.

Marketplace:

This chair and stool ultimately suits just about any kind of dining or bar situation, but are predominantly middle to high end of the market products.
