

Cardinal Ritter Preparatory High School in St. Louis, educates students by focusing on academic excellence, leadership and faith development. When the school moved to its new facility, administrators relied on KI for their furniture solutions.

“We wanted the best quality furnishings at the best value,” says Mike Salsich, Vice President. “We required good looks combined with durability and functionality.”

Principal Carmele Hall agrees, “The furniture needed to be comfortable, functional and cost effective.”

“KI was selected because the architect and project manager felt most comfortable working with KI,” says Salsich.

The project included furnishings for the library, administrative offices, state-of-the-art classrooms, conference rooms, entry spaces and more.

The library features CrossRoads tables, chairs and shelving for a clean, timeless look that complements the library space. “The library is a really great room!” says Salsich.

According to Hall, “It’s what you’d expect a great library to look like... very classy...just beautiful.”

Administrative offices at Cardinal Ritter were designed to fulfill a variety of functions for various users.

"The main office is my favorite," says Hall. "It makes a great first impression on visitors. I'm so comfortable in my office...everyone is."

"People are pleased with their offices," adds Salsich. "They look sharp. The administrative team met many times with the architect, designer and KI sales rep to review layouts, styles, fabrics and color."

Cardinal Ritter classrooms use versatile Intellect furniture and computer labs are powered by the InTandem table system.

“During the selection process, we tested the furniture,” says Hall. “Students would come in and try it. One even stood on top of the desk to prove it wouldn’t tip.”

“The classroom furniture is so versatile, we can use it for group or individual study,” continues Hall. “The teachers are quite happy with it. It really, really works.”

According to Salsich the KI rep was very helpful and responsive.

Hall concurs, “We enjoyed working with the KI people. They were very helpful every step of the process from planning, to testing, to selecting finishes, to installation.”

“We are quite pleased,” says Salsich.

“This furniture will be around for a long, long time,” concludes Hall.
