

Georgia-Pacific

Plytanium® DryPly™ Plywood
Sturd-I-Floor®

PROFESSIONAL BUILDER'S SATISFACTION GUARANTEE

- No delamination
- No edge swell
- No joint sanding

Georgia-Pacific Wood Products LLC ("Georgia-Pacific") guarantees that its Plytanium DryPly Sturd-I-Floor Plywood panels will not delaminate, and that its panel edges will not swell and require sanding due to moisture absorption during the normal construction period of a structure.¹

If a panel does not meet the above guarantees Georgia-Pacific will, at its sole option, replace or repair the unsatisfactory panel(s) including reasonable labor reimbursement. This guarantee remains in force from the date of purchase of any panel(s) until the date of installation of the finished flooring.²

¹ This assumes the maximum panel exposure to the weather is no more than 45 days due to construction delays; that the panels have been installed in compliance with APA-The Engineered Wood Association recommendations for Sturd-I-Floor; and that the panels have been accorded treatment considered as good building practice in the industry.

² GP reserves the right to inspect any finished flooring installation.