The Pocket Door - Features and Finishes

The premier hideaway Pocket Door is a revolutionary system that has a steel frame enclosing a serviceable track and doors; the door panels recess into the sides of the fireplace instead of swinging out allowing full access to the hearth when the doors are open. This convenient application is available in arched or rectangular with mesh, tempered glass or neoceram glass. There is a variety of design choices, textures and finishes to complete the look. The doors come in custom order sizes for masonry built/component fireplaces or in three standard sizes. The pocket door can only be used for new construction or remodels.

These doors are not only true handcrafted wrought iron creations but are applied in an unprecedented manner that is an extremely exciting conversation piece, as well as a safer more convenient fire door application for restricted access fireplaces.

The strap handles come standard on the hideaway Pocket Doors, except on the Fullview Style.

Shown in Rectangular Rustica Style.
