Thonet provides products for the contract furniture market to the specification of the end user and as such relies upon the end user and as such relies upon the end user and their agents such as the dealer/installer or the designer to validate and test the suitability of the products or materials selected for any specific application.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY DISCLAIMER

When an order is for product(s) not in its standard line, Thonet's sole responsibility is to provide product(s) meeting the specifications of the customer or its agents and representatives. Thonet specifically disclaims any obligation to indemnify or defend customer, property owners, architects, designers, specifiers, customer agents or others for claims alleging infringement of trademarks, copyrights, patents, designs or any other issues collectively described as intellectual property. Customer confirms that it is the originator of specifications for this product and has clear title to said intellectual property and will indemnify and hold harmless Thonet for any claims, liabilities and expenses (including expenses and reasonable attorney fees) in connection with such infringement.

WARNINGS

Property owners and managers must make monthly inspections to look for signs of structural fatigue, such as cracks or looseness, incurred in daily handling and use. Inspections should become more frequent when chairs are over 3 years old, or whenever signs of frame weakness arise. Examinations must include, but not be limited to, structural joints, corner blocks, screws, fasteners, welds and any areas of stress. Missing leg glides or loose casters must be replaced. Chairs exhibiting any of the above should be removed from service and repaired to original standard, or discarded. Metal frame members bent at different angles from original are an indication of over stressing and could render frame unstable or prone to sudden failure. Chairs with bent frames should be removed from service; do not attempt to straighten. Rebending frames may further weaken metal and increase potential for failure.

FLAMMABILITY WARNING

Thonet's seating products incorporate flame retardant urethane foam meeting the requirements of California Bulletin 117. ALL THESE COMPONENTS ARE FLAMMABLE UNDER CERTAIN CONDITIONS. Chairs stacked or concentrated for storage create additional hazards and can accelerate flame spread in a fire scenario. Do not expose seating to flame or heat such as from smoking materials, exposed lights, space heaters or other intense sources of heat or flame. Once ignited, chairs can burn, releasing heat, toxic fumes and smoke, while consuming oxygen. In an enclosed space, the resulting conditions can be incapacitating or fatal to human beings. Building managers should take appropriate precautions to protect occupants from fire sources and provide adequate detection systems, warning systems, sprinkler systems, and exits in the event of fire.

For detailed information about specific flammability test methods and results, write: Thonet
5303 East Morris Blvd.
Morristown, TN 37813.

Note 1: In the event that your fire protection engineers, your particular application or use, or prevailing codes require a higher degree of flammability protection than foam meeting California Bulletin 117, Thonet offers several alternatives: Code Red Foam, construction designed for California Bulletin 133 and Boston, Neoprene Foam, Vonar fiberglass and other protective barriers. Consult the option page of this pricelist or your sales representative for current pricing.

Note 2: Due to the vast choice of upholstery covers with varying degrees of inherent flame retardancy and the availability of different flame treatments, specifiers and purchasers are responsible for evaluating the published data and selecting upholstery which addresses conditions of the installation, and meets applicable fire or building codes. Flame retardant treated COM (Customer's Own Material) is applied at customer's risk.

POLICY ON TECHNICAL BULLETIN 133

Several states and jurisdictions have adopted the full-scale flammability standards of Technical Bulletin 133 into their fire codes. Purchasers are required to consult local fire officials to determine applicability of TB-133 for specific projects. If the project is exempt from TB-133 standards, that must be so stated on the purchase order.

When TB-133 is required, seating must be constructed with additional barriers and flame retardant foams. Consult this price list for up charges or special quote.

Limitations on fabrics and/or styles may apply. When C.O.M. must be treated for acceptance, cost of treatment will be charged to the customers account. Consult this price list for procedure. Customers who arrange their own C.O.M. treatments must obtain approval from Thonet of proposed treatment before the order will be manufactured.

Thonet has successfully tested a number of representative style and fabric combinations. Most fire authorities will accept these representatives without further testing. If local authorities require specific testing, or if historical data does not support the style/fabric combination being proposed for a project, then the cost of testing and sample preparation will be charged to the purchaser as described in this price list.

FATIGUE AND PRODUCT LIFE

The life of seating products is not pre-determinable but is influenced by degree of use and maintenance.

Multiple failures occurring after a period of years may indicate that seating has exceeded its safe, useful life and should be replaced to prevent injury.

CASTERS

Casters are not recommended on hard surfaced floors. Chairs may move too freely and lead to injury. Chairs with four casters are not recommended for elderly care or for persons with impaired ability to seat themselves.

OPEN BACK CHAIRS

Chairs with large openings in the back are not recommended where small children may be seated alone or left unattended (example: Food Courts, Fast Food installations, etc.).

CANTILEVER ("S") STYLE CHAIRS

Chairs with cantilever style frames are not recommended for areas of heavy or constant use such as fast food, sport complexes, casinos, or extended waiting areas. Variation in back heights may indicate frame has been overstressed and should be removed from service to prevent sudden collapse.

STORAGE

Furniture should not be stored in cartons for extended periods of time in high humidity areas. Products should be unboxed and stored in air-conditioned spaces to prevent a chemical reaction caused by the chemicals utilized in the flame-proofing process, and to prevent mildew.

DIMENSIONS AND SIZES

All seating dimensions shown in sales literature are approximate. Due to various fabric buildups, widths can vary as much as 3/4". We assume no responsibility for overall dimensions unless specific limitations are clearly spelled out on the purchase order.

PACKING

Seating is shipped rated cartoned (C) as indicated before the weight in the Weight Column of a particular item. Weight for two items per carton is indicated by (2) after the weight.

Weights may vary due to changes in cartoning or product design. If exact weights are required, please contact Customer Service.

A. Thonet reserves the right to refuse COM orders (or process without responsibility) where fabrics are not suitable because of pattern, weight, width, stretch, etc.

B. We assume no responsibility whatsoever for wearability of COM fabrics. They are applied totally at customer's own risk.

C. Only textiles meeting rigid contract specifications with stretch directions are suitable for upholstery using blind-tacking method. We reserve the right to upholster this material using exposed welting.

D. Due to the fact that all COM fabrics are hand-cut, yardage requirements may exceed those listed in the catalog. Thonet is not responsible for the disposition of any excess COM shipped to our facilities over that required by the original order.

E. Thonet assumes no responsibility for the flame retardancy of any COM. Customers are solely responsible for seeing that COM complies with all applicable codes and regulations.

Note: Most flame retardant treatments are salt solutions. Cleaning these fabrics with water or water-based foams will result in salt ringing. Solvent based fabric cleaners or dry cleaning are alternate methods of cleaning. However, you are cautioned to test proposed cleaning procedures on a small portion of fabric before proceeding with the cleaning of the entire installation.

TECHNICAL BULLETIN 133 INFORMATION

What is Technical Bulletin 133 (CAL T.B. 133)?

The State of California developed testing standards known as CAL T.B. 133 for the purpose of evaluating the flammability of furniture. This is not a test of the individual components but rather a full-scale fire test for the entire piece of upholstered furniture including the frame, foam and upholstery.

Facilities that may need to comply with T.B. 133:

The test was specifically developed for seating products used in high risk public areas such as healthcare facilities, nursing homes, penal institutions, auditoriums, public assembly areas, etc.

Who must comply with T.B. 133:

Several states and jurisdictions have adopted standards put forth for CAL T.B. 133 into their fire code. Specifiers and purchasers are responsible for determining if their local fire officials require T.B. 133 compliance.

All Thonet seating products are standard with foam meeting California Technical Bulletin #117. It is the customer's responsibility to specify fire retardant fabric to meet any fire codes. Thonet has the capability to meet California Technical Bulletin #133 when required, order must specify clearly. Call for quotation.

Note: All fabrics, including Customer's own material (C.O.M.), must be pre-approved by the factory before order can be processed when TB-133 is required. Consult sales representative for approval arrangements. Customer is responsible for all costs incurred for fabric treatments. Full scale testing, when required, will be charged to customer.

The following charges would be used once factory has identified required treatment and foam. For quoting without factory pre-rating, add all three fabric treatment up charges and Red foam up charge to product costs. Factory will still need to rate fabric and product before order can be processed and adjust price accordingly.
