Reclaimed Wood Table and Counter Tops

TerraMai Puts a New Spin on Tops

Introducing TerraMai reclaimed wood table tops. For 20-plus years, you've known TerraMai as the leader in reclaimed wood flooring, paneling, siding and decking. We thought it was time to show just what we can do with furniture, starting with table and counter tops.

TerraMai delivers gorgeous reclaimed woods from around the world, including exotic hardwoods from Asia, South America and Africa, as well as classic indigenous woods from throughout North America. Working with some of the world's top design firms, TerraMai's recent project list includes Google, Morgans Hotel Group, HBO, The High Line, Starbucks, Amazon, REI, the San Francisco 49ers, YouTube, Ernst & Young, UC Berkeley, and hundreds more.

Collaborating with designers to help achieve their vision is what we enjoy most and what we believe we do better than anyone in the business. In these pages and in our Price List you'll see our initial scope of species, finishes and sizes. Don't see what you're looking for? Let's talk.

TerraMai has set the industry standard for reclaimed wood products for over 20 years.

The demand for custom reclaimed wood tables has grown dramatically in recent years. Our product line of standard sizes, combined with our custom capabilities, makes it easier than ever for designers to specify our reclaimed wood tables. Our handcrafted table tops are available in a range of wood species, shapes, sizes, and finishes and are ideally suited for office, hospitality and education environments.

When it comes to table base options, designers often have a base selected that coordinates with the other office or restaurant furniture specified for the project. In most cases, our tops can work with these bases. Alternatively, designers can work with TerraMai to create a complete table design, including bases, milled and fabricated by our team of expert craftsmen. TerraMai also advises clients on finding third-party base solutions to work with their TerraMai tops.

Custom projects are our strength. We're here to help you work through the details and develop solutions that meet your needs. If you don't see what you're looking for here, just give us a call.

TEAK

TerraMai's reclaimed teak comes from buildings, houses and other structures in Southeast Asia. Known as the "King of Woods," teak is prized throughout the world for its legendary beauty and durability. New, plantation teak cannot compare to old-growth Asian teak in either looks or performance. Teak is able to withstand sun, sea and just about anything Mother Nature has to offer.

ACACIA

TerraMai's acacia comes from orchard salvage in Southeast Asia. This tropical hardwood offers rich medium brown color tones and interesting grain patterns. The acacia tree has been used as a source of shellac for thousands of years. The shoots, seeds and berries are also used in Southeast Asian cuisine. Acacia trees grow quickly and are culled from orchards after about 40 years of service once they no longer produce shellac.

rePLY

TerraMai's rePLY is reclaimed from the industrial manufacture of large-dimension Douglas Fir plywood posts and beams. This material yields a unique look, with a subtle yet striking 'stripe' effect reminiscent of textiles and fabrics. TerraMai diverts this material directly from the waste stream. rePLY's distinct, modern aesthetic make it a compelling new product.

OAK

TerraMai's reclaimed oak comes from 19th-century barns and other structures from the eastern U.S. The oak reclaimed from these vintage structures is a blend of red and white oak varieties and adds instant soul to even the sleekest modern space. TerraMai offers our oak tops in both white and ebony tinted oils and stains to accentuate the wood's unique grain and character.

WHITE OAK

TerraMai's white oak comes from vintage barns, horse fencing, shipping material and other sources from the eastern U.S. White Oak is valued for its muted color tones and its hardness. The neutral color spectrum of white oak enables it to work beautifully with virtually any color pallet. This versatility has made white oak a go-to wood for designers.

Douglas Fir

TerraMai's reclaimed Douglas fir comes from vintage barns, industrial buildings and other structures throughout western North America. Douglas fir has been the building material of choice in the western U.S. for decades due to its strength, workability and classic good looks. TerraMai offers Douglas fir tops in both white and ebony tints and stains to augment the wood's natural beauty and character.

Redwood

TerraMai's reclaimed redwood comes from a variety of sources such as old wine tanks, barns, bridges, zeppelin hangars, hops poles and more. Redwood's renowned ability to withstand rot and decay make it an ideal material for exterior installations, such as outdoor dining. These unique natural properties, combined with the wood's inherent beauty, threatened the very existence of the extraordinary old-growth redwood stands found only in Northern California. Thankfully, these last remaining stands are now protected, which makes old-growth redwood of this quality available only in reclaimed wood.
