Radius

Designed by Wolfgang C.R. Mezger

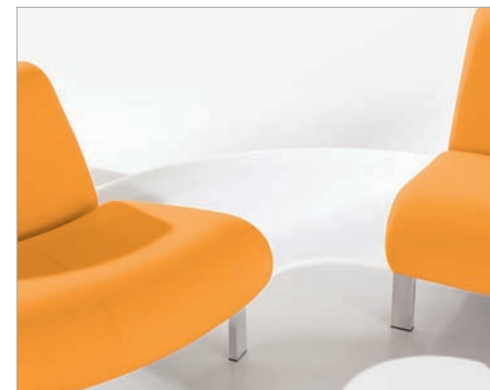

The Radius Lounge Series by Wolfgang Mezger is a vast collection of modular seats, benches, and tables suitable for a variety of settings and applications. The classic design of Radius is timeless and versatile. It presents endless flexibility with the capacity to reconfigure, replace, and redefine spaces.

Radius modular seating is ideal for high traffic environments. It features details such as a sweep-through area between seats and backs. Seats and backs are independent of each other for simple field replacement. Arms and tablets can be added after installation and are field replaceable. Single seat chairs, sofas and freestanding tables are components of Radius offering a different perspective of this modular collection.

Modular inside and outside curved seats are available in a range of degrees: 90°, 45°, and 30°. Radius curved seats can be combined to create full circles with different diameters and contoured configurations. All components work together to provide seating that creates environments, defines space, and controls traffic. End tables, connecting tables and freestanding tables complete the collection.
