The Impact of Movement

On average, people spend 36% of their time working—often hunched over desks or glued to seats in meeting rooms. Research shows that movement throughout the workday contributes to wellbeing, ultimately leading to a more engaged workforce. Walkstation offers employees the option to walk without disrupting the workday, enhancing health and productivity.

Movement in the Workplace

Workplaces designed for wellbeing incorporate spaces for sitting, standing and walking throughout the day in order to support a variety of work modes.

Ideal for shared workspaces, Walkstation can be placed in open areas to allow easy access and promote collaboration, or in enclosed areas for increased privacy.
